General Information

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Recent advances in diagnostic technologies, systemic therapy and local therapy have increased the precision of personalized gastrointestinal (GI) and genitourinary (GU) oncology. This rapidly evolving landscape challenges clinical care teams to better coordinate multi-disciplinary care and stay on the cutting edge for optimal patient outcomes.

This year's symposium will explore the latest procedures, technology and medical treatments for patients with GI and GU cancers. Recent national guidelines will be reviewed and emphasis will be given to multi-disciplinary care, recently FDA-approved drug therapies and upcoming clinical trials. Ample time will be given for case discussions by a multidisciplinary panel and attendees are invited to submit their clinical cases to mboone2@emory.edu.

TARGET AUDIENCE

This symposium is intended for medical, surgical and radiation oncologists, gastroenterologists, urologists, colorectal and urological surgeons, interventional radiologists, oncology nurses and physician assistants. Attendance by trainees is also highly encouraged.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this education activity, learners should be able to:

- Identify the new oncologic drugs for GI and GU cancers;
- Formulate a tailored treatment plan using NCCN guidelines;
- Incorporate a multidisciplinary approach towards patient care and offer an increased number of treatment options to cancer patients.

CONTINUING EDUCATION CREDIT

The Emory University School of Medicine designates this live activity for a maximum of 5.75 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

The Emory University School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Successful completion of this CME activity, which includes participation in the evaluation component enables the participant to earn up to 5.75 MOC points in the American Board of Internal Medicine's (ABIM) Maintenance of Certification (MOC) program. It is the CME activity provider's responsibility to submit participant completion information to ACCME for the purpose of granting ABIM MOC credit.

SYMPOSIUM LOCATION AND LODGING

All sessions will be held at the Emory University Health Sciences Research Building in the Rollins Auditorium, 1760 Haygood Drive, NE, Atlanta, GA 30322. Limited parking is available near the building for attendees. Emory faculty and staff are asked to utilize their usual parking facility.

A courtesy block of rooms has been reserved at the Emory Conference Center Hotel, 1615 Clifton Road, NE, Atlanta 30329 (within walking distance of the Research Building). To reserve accommodations and receive the Emory rate, please call 404-712-6000. Indicate that you are making reservation for the GI Cancer Symposium. For more information about the hotel, visit: www.emoryconferencecenter.com.

REGISTRATION

The registration fee includes course material, continental breakfast and lunch breaks and other amenities involved in rewarding learning experience. Minimum and maximum enrollments have been established. A refund of your registration fee will be made if written cancellation is received no later than October 1, 2017. The liability of Emory University is limited to the registration fee. Emory will not be responsible for any losses incurred by registrants, including but not limited to airfare cancellation or hotel deposits.
