COURSE DESCRIPTION

Many innovative tools have emerged for the treatment of intermediate and high risk pulmonary embolism (PE). However, data comparing different treatment modalities are sparse and guidelines are often incomplete or contradictory. As such, the care of patients with pulmonary embolism often varies depending on the hospital, physician specialty, or individual clinician.

Given the absence of standardized treatment guidelines, this one day symposium will focus on multi-disciplinary team based approaches for the optimal treatment of PE in 2017, as well as address some of the areas of controversy in the management of PE.

TARGET AUDIENCE

One purpose of the meeting is to discuss the importance of pulmonary embolism response teams in the management of pulmonary embolism.

This conference is designed for physicians and healthcare professionals within the specialties of Cardiology, Emergency Medicine, Internal Medicine, Oncology, Radiology and Surgery. Trainees are also encouraged to attend.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this educational activity, learners should be able to:

- Identify and evaluate the multiple treatment options currently available for pulmonary embolism (PE)
- Describe risk stratification in PE
- Provide advanced management of intermediate and high risk PE
- Organize treatment from early discharge to management in the ICU
- Understand the long term complications of PE
- Develop a multidisciplinary PE response team

PROFESSIONAL PRACTICE GAPS

1. This conference will address areas of controversy in the management of pulmonary embolism. The society guidelines often have conflicting or incomplete recommendations for the optimal management of pulmonary embolism in 2017. This educational activity will address these gaps.

2. This conference will address the optimal management of patients with intermediate and high risk pulmonary embolism. Currently, there is wide variation in practice for these patients. This conference will try to address with a multidisciplinary team based approach.

CONTINUING EDUCATION CREDIT

The Emory University School of Medicine designates this live activity for a maximum of 6.25 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

The Emory University School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Successful completion of the CME activity, which includes participation in the evaluation component enables the participant to earn up to 6.25 MOC points in the American Board of Internal Medicine’s (ABIM) Maintenance of Certification (MOC) program. It is the CME activity provider’s responsibility to submit participant completion information to the ACCME for the purpose of granting ABIM MOC credit.
