Southern Hospital Medicine Conference
Collaborative Solutions Across Healthcare

15th Annual Southern Hospital Medicine Conference
October 9-11, 2014

With pre-conference courses on October 8
W Hotel Atlanta-Midtown - Atlanta, Georgia

INTRODUCTION
Caring for hospitalized patients requires an integrative knowledge of various specialty fields of medicine. A working knowledge of recent advances in the most common diagnoses is essential to efficiently and effectively manage hospitalized patients.

NEED
The rapid growth of the hospitalist movement has created an expanding knowledge need for the newest developments in the care of the hospitalized patients. Hospitalists are leaders in improving healthcare delivery from patient admission to discharge; implementing practice guidelines to improve quality of care; developing new ways to assess quality and performance; and reducing errors by preventing avoidable events and complications in the hospital.

Healthcare providers who work in the hospital setting are constantly seeking new ideas and methods to improve and deliver high quality care. Sharing of quality processes and clinical pathways across different hospitals is important in advancing healthcare delivery in the US. This conference gives a proper forum for healthcare providers to update the newest concepts of hospital medicine and share their successes and failures of quality program implementation.

PRE-COURSE #6: Designing Hospital Units to Optimize Outcomes (HALF-DAY, PM)

Course Director: Jason Stein, MD FHM / Course Faculty: Diaz Clark, RN; Bryan Castle, RN, MBA

About the Course
This pre-course will provide a practical overview of the convergent structure, process, management, training, and system features that improve the outcomes for hospitalized patients and the frontline professionals who care for them. The course will draw upon Accountable Care Units (ACUs) with Structured Interdisciplinary Bedside Rounds (SIBR), a model which has been implemented in multiple hospitals in the U.S. and Australia and has also been included in the project portfolio of the CMS Innovation Center.

Who Should Attend
This pre-course is aimed at all professionals with an interest in designing hospital care towards greater quality, reliability, accountability, and patient-centeredness, including hospital unit leaders (e.g. physicians, nurses, and allied health professionals); hospital leadership (e.g. executive leadership, nursing leadership, clinical governance, and quality and safety officers); and medical and nursing educators (e.g. directors of training and professional development programs).

OBJECTIVES:
- At the conclusion of this activity participants will be able to:
  - Describe features of a hospital ward structure designed to optimize outcomes, i.e. the Accountable Care Unit (ACU)
  - Explain and incorporate features of a patient-centered teamwork model called Structured Interdisciplinary Bedside Rounds (SIBR)
  - Describe the influence ACU-SIBR care model on unit outcomes

AGENDA:
1st hour: Structure: the Accountable Care Unit (ACU)
2nd hour: Process: Structured Interdisciplinary Bedside Rounds (SIBR)
3rd hour: Outcomes: Clinical, Service, Cost, and Education
Discussion: Launching and Sustaining an ACU with SIBR
