This full-day annual symposium will provide a comprehensive update of treatment approaches to the diagnosis and management of movement disorders. A broad spectrum of disorders including Parkinson’s disease, tremor, dystonia, chorea, and tics will be addressed. This year’s program will also include a discussion of psychogenic (functional) movement disorders. Through video case presentations, didactic lecture, and interactive discussions with expert clinicians, this program will present leading-edge diagnostic and management strategies to better enable clinicians to care for movement disorder patients in 2015.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Identify the clinical presentations (abnormal movements) that characterize parkinsonism, dystonia, tremor, tics, and chorea.
- Recognize the “red flags” that are suggestive of a psychogenic (functional) movement disorder.
- Devise an appropriate management strategy for the patient with advancing Parkinson’s disease.
- Discuss how local injections of botulinum toxin are utilized in the management of focal dystonia, including the criteria for patient selection.
- Describe an appropriate movement disorder candidate for DBS (deep brain stimulation) surgical intervention.
- Decide when genetic testing is appropriate for a movement disorder patient.

Who Should Attend?

General neurologists, neurosurgeons, family practice physicians, psychiatrists, rehabilitation physicians, neurology nurses, physician assistants, movement disorder fellows, and neurology residents.

Accreditation

The Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Credit Designation

The Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai designates this live activity for a maximum of 7.75 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Verification of Attendance

Verification of attendance will be provided to all professionals.
Special Needs

The Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai is in full compliance with provisions of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and is accessible for individuals with special needs.
