Target audience
This activity is targeted toward pediatricians, family practitioners, child psychiatrists, psychologists, advanced practice providers, nurses, social workers, educators and other associated professionals who care for pediatric patients.

Statement of educational need
This symposium will increase provider awareness of key issues and challenges affecting children of Kentucky. Critical behavioral health challenges impacting today’s children include the opioid crisis, pediatric suicidality, human trafficking and exposure to violence. Physicians and clinicians should be able address these key issues to adequately care for the behavioral health of their pediatric patients.

Educational objectives
1. Discuss recommended screenings for suicidal ideation in elementary school-age children.
2. Describe treatment options for post-traumatic stress disorder and resources available to families.
3. Identify treatment strategies for depression in children and adolescents.
4. Describe the warning signs for human trafficking that present during a pediatric visit.
5. Discuss the impact of the opioid crisis on Kentucky kids.
6. Recognize the importance of screening for toxic exposures and traumatic events in children and adolescents.
