2nd Annual New York Neurotrauma Consortium (NYNC) Virtual Symposium
Interprofessional Continuing Education Conference
Friday, February 11, 2022 | 8am - 1pm (EST) | Virtual CE Conference via Zoom

Statement of Need: Recently published guidelines on the management of severe pediatric TBI are not widely known and this program will highlight some of the changes in management that have occurred since the last publication approximately 8 years ago. Although many practitioners take neurotrauma call, fewer have chosen to specialize in the complete care of traumatic brain and spinal cord injury and may be unfamiliar with the nuances of their complex management, such as ICP care and the new algorithm that has been published. Case-based examples of management will be designed to discuss and educate on the myriad treatment options available. There is a need to increase awareness of options to treat disorders of consciousness in the acute and subacute care of TBI. Practitioners may not exhibit sufficient comfort or knowledge as to which eurostimulants are appropriate for which stages of TBI recovery. Such discussion can help attendees determine which patients would benefit from neurostimulation, leading to change in practice for the goal of improving recovery.

Program Objectives: All Northwell Health CME activities are intended to improve patient care, safety Assess treatment paradigms for children with severe traumatic brain injury and outcomes. At the conclusion of this conference participants should be able to:

Assess treatment paradigms for children with severe traumatic brain injury

Evaluate the latest treatments for spinal cord injury patients including early surgery and hemodynamic support.

Discuss management strategies in cranial and spinal trauma through case-based examples and panel discussion.

Target Audience: MDs, DOs, PAs, NPs, RNs, Pharmacists, Psychologists, Northwell Health residents, medical, nursing students, retirees, and all members of the healthcare team interested in cerebrovascular disease
